Yahoo Blocking Emails

Yahoo are blocking our emails again. It is strange that a company that sells emails address, would decide to block emails from this site, when we only send out membership confirmation and report hackers to their isp's.

For the time being until this matter is resolved any wishing to join our community, must not use a yahoo email address.

This is not our fault but the fault of yahoo. Their action is unlawful and very inconvenient for a lot of people. My personal experience with yahoo, is that they sell your personal email address to bulk mailing lists, so their blocking our emails is really strange behaviour of an untrustworthy company.
